

BRETT WALKOW

From Seinfeld to the Tonight Show, from MTV to E! TV, the funny for this young comedian has just begun.

For over 15 years, Brett has enjoyed creating a vast array of characters for original comedy shows & award winning films in which he starred, co-wrote, directed, and produced. The shows have featured Brett at Comic Relief, The Tonight Show, Seinfeld, E! TV, and as recurring characters on MTV.

He then went on to create and star in his award winning short film 'Fight Night' (chosen for Sony's Tropfest, the world's largest short film festival); which he also wrote and co-produced. The following year Brett was chosen as one of 22 comics from around the world, for The New Faces Of Comedy & to host their film festival 'Comedia' - at one of the world's largest comedy fests:
The Just For Laughs Festival, in Montreal, Canada.

In the last 2 years Brett has been chomping at the boob tube show by show. After seeing Brett appear in Las Vegas doing stand up, the writers of NBC's Las Vegas decided to write Brett into 2 episodes. Including one that was rated one of Las Vegas' highest ever. 2009 flew in and Brett found himself starring in 3 new commercials and 5 new pilots - From Game Show Network to the creators of Laugh-In this year should be a pretty funny year for this outlandish comic actor!
